A lamp beside the rain

Read with your eyes. Then select the four lines and copy.

I leave a lamp beside the rain.

The window gathers little seas.

A moth rehearses being flame.

Dark gives each wing a name.

The shapes hold one poem. The character map can hold another.

A mapping experiment, not encryption. Both readings are in the source.